Groups invited to update details in online Community Services Directory

New and existing not-for-profit sporting clubs, organisations and recreation groups in the Gladstone Region are encouraged to hop online and update their details in the Community Services Directory.

The directory details and lists a service overview and contact details for a broad range of general community services, special interest, sporting and recreation groups, including health and support services for all ages.

Gladstone Region Councillor Darryl Branthwaite said now was an important time for applicable clubs, organisations and groups to update their details online, before the deadline of Wednesday 6 May.

“Council is encouraging groups in the region to check that their contact details remain current,” Councillor Branthwaite said.

“The Community Services Directory is a popular and valuable source of information for Gladstone Region residents and visitors, and details are promoted at no cost to groups as a free service provided by Council.

“To ensure accuracy of details, Council is asking groups listed in the directory to review their information as soon as possible.

“Ensuring listings contain current contact information will enable residents to access accurate details about organisations and for them to utilise their services.

“The directory has become a well-used resource and Council is pleased to be able to help the not-for-profit, community and service sectors within the region freely promote their individual organisations, clubs and groups.”

Listing changes can be made online at www.gladstonecommunitydirectory.com.au or assistance can be provided by calling Council on 4970 0700.
